

I am a strong supporter of satellite radio and fully believe that competition should not be stifled. If satellite radio can offer better services than conventional radio, then only should conventional radio try harder. Punishing satellite for offering better services is anti-competition and anti-American. Shame on anyone who does that.

Jake Davis